Letter from the Chair

To the Honorable Janet Napolitano
Governor of the State of Arizona

Dear Governor Napolitano:

We are pleased to submit to you and the citizens of Arizona the summary report of the Commission for the 2003 fiscal year. This report fulfills the requirements of the act which established the Arizona Commission on the Arts (A.R.S. 41-981),

Through the Arizona Commission on the Arts, the State makes a strategic investment of public dollars which create value through the arts. We can point to four areas where the arts play key roles in improving the quality of life and are delivering value to the Grand Canyon State.

1. Building Vital Communities: Today, economic development is about competing for talent. Arizona competes nationally, regionally and globally for the investment capital, skilled workers and market opportunities needed to stimulate and sustain economic growth. The arts are an essential factor in creating the cultural climate that attracts these groups.
2. Reaching All Arizonans: The Commission works to deliver equal access to the arts in Arizona's rural and ethnic communities, as well as to people with disabilities.
3. Preparing the Thinkers of Tomorrow: The Arts Commission provides professional development for teachers with little or no arts education background; expands after-school arts programs; and supports arts institutions in the delivery of arts education experiences to schools, students and teachers.
4. Investing in the Future of the Arts Business Sector: The State's investment in Arizona ArtShare provides training to arts groups so they can become more effective businesses. Working Capital Reserves grants are tools that leverage understanding within organizations of the need to build liquidity and are a key cash flow management tool.

We also closely track the results of the State's investment in the arts. For instance, we know that during the last year, 7,578,672 Arizonans were touched by 744 artistic projects. We also have learned that State's funds are essential in encouraging private contributions and were matched by $99,911,136 from local sources. We summarize these projects by county and city in this report.

How were these projects selected? Project applications are reviewed by community representatives from across the state, people who represent the diversity and range of Arizona's population. These panels review application materials and make recommendations for funding to the Commission, who then makes the final decisions on allocation of funds.

We take our guidance from the fifteen Governor-appointed Commission members and from community leaders, educators and arts professionals who have taken part in the Commission's planning process. With their advice, we are working to achieve the goals and objectives outlined in our plan Linking Up: Strategic Connections for the Arts in Arizona 2000-2006.

Yours Respectfully,

Dennis Kavanaugh
Commission Chair

The Arts Are Alive in Arizona (and Do Make a Difference)

- Dennis Kavanaugh

Take a look around the state. Communities as diverse as Mesa, Tucson, Yuma, Phoenix, Prescott, Bisbee and others have realized that the arts are essential partners in shaping our future. Whether it's an art instructor in your daughter's sixth grade classroom, a community theatre production or small art gallery in your downtown, we're learning that public funding of the arts is one of the smartest investments around if you really want to improve the quality of life of Arizona.

If we take a peek at the combined budgets of arts organizations in our state, consider how many people they employ and the amount of dollars that return to each community through purchases by employees and attenders, it's apparent that the arts play a surprisingly significant role in our state's economic development. A small amount of investment in this area grows into many more dollars.

We also know that the types of companies we want to attract here to the state look closely at the vitality of the local arts scene when pondering if and where they might open a new facility or relocate. These CEOs understand that their creative workers demand intriguing activities for their leisure time. Where arts flourish, the industries of tomorrow follow.

Look at rural communities around the state and we see that public funding of the arts can make an important difference. Festivals and arts events lure tourists to visit and spend money in small towns while also offering life-changing opportunities for residents in those communities to enjoy the arts. Imagine the impact on a small child who has her first chance to see a touring musical performance. Imagine the impact on the balance sheet of a motel or restaurant in a festival town. Without public funding, many of these events simply would not happen.

We also know that children exposed to art activities do better in school and in their leisure time. With cutbacks in educational funding, many schools are struggling to offer arts activities; public funding for the arts helps bring teaching artists into classrooms in a creative (and efficient) partnership.

One more thing. The arts in Arizona challenge, surprise, teach and delight. That they make your life richer while also helping our state's economy is so much the better. It's time we began investing in people and communities through public funding of the arts. The first step is to continue the dialogue about the arts and our future.

- Tribune, January 2, 2004

Agency Overview

The Arizona Commission on the Arts is the state agency that connects artists and communities across the Grand Canyon State. With a staff of 19, the Commission manages an array of diverse programs and services for Arizona residents.

The Commission is currently operating under its 2000-2006 Strategic plan, “Linking Up” which encompasses the following vision, mission and goals.

Our Vision

An Arizona where all citizens experience the arts as integral to their lives.

Our Mission

To enhance the artistic development of all Arizona communities, arts organizations and artists through innovative partnerships and stewardship of public funds.

Goals

- All people in Arizona have access to diverse arts experiences.
- Artistic and management skills of artists and arts organizations are strengthened.
- The essential role of the arts in teaching and learning, particularly in K-12, is accomplished.
- Access to arts information is provided through both “high-tech” and “high-touch” services.
- Public policy is favorable towards Arizona’s arts industry.
- Stable financial resources to implement the plan exist.

The History

When Congress created the National Endowment for the Arts in 1965, they also gave funding to all state governments to form state arts commissions and asked them to conduct surveys of each state’s existing facilities, organizations and individuals engaged in the arts. Governor Samuel P. Goddard established the Arizona Commission on the Arts and Humanities as a state council by executive order on January 24, 1966. The 28th Arizona Legislature passed S.B. 139, establishing the Arizona Commission on the Arts and Humanities as a permanent state agency, and Governor Jack Williams signed the bill on March 13, 1967.

The Arts Commission became the official agency of the State of Arizona “to stimulate and encourage public interest in the cultural resources, through the study and presentation of the performing arts and fine arts, to ensure that their role in the life of our communities will continue to grow and will play an even more significant part in the welfare and educational experience of our citizens.” In 1982, Governor Bruce Babbitt signed enabling legislation continuing the agency to 1992, and changing its name to the Arizona Commission on the Arts. Again in 1992, the Legislature and Governor Fife Symington reinstated the agency until 2002. In 2001, the Auditor General’s office conducted a nine-month-long Sunset Audit. The following year, the Legislature reauthorized the agency until 2012.

Agency Overview

The Commission's leadership reaches into all areas of the state, supporting programs that contribute to student learning, connect people in rural communities and urban centers, that preserve the rich traditions of Arizona's ethnic communities, encourage participation by people with disabilities and by citizens of all ages and strengthen artistic and administrative skills of arts organizations to help position them to better serve the people of Arizona.

Through the Arizona Commission on the Arts, the state makes a strategic investment of public dollars to assure Arizona's competitive edge in attracting knowledge workers and their businesses. The diversity of our artistic offerings also becomes a magnet for attracting tourists. This public investment encourages contributions from the private sector and leverages these dollars many times over, contributing enormously to the quality of life and education opportunities the people of Arizona expect.

The agency represents the arts in policy discussions including economic development, cultural tourism, education, community development, public art and transportation design.

The Arts Commission

The Governor of Arizona appoints 15 commission members to a governing board. The commission members award grants and formulate policy consistent with the enabling legislation. Commission members serve three-year terms and are selected to ensure geographic and ethnic representation from all areas of the state. They are selected for their good judgement, demonstrated ability and experience in arts-related fields.

All grants and awards from the Arts Commission are made in accordance with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, American Disabilities Act, the Age Discrimination Act of 1975 and Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972.

The Commission's History

1972

The Commission's programs begin with three Arizona artists serving one school district. Today, 32 years later, the Artists in Residence (Arts Education) and other education programs provide opportunities for more than 200 artists reaching schools with more than 5,000 contacts each year by artists and arts organizations. Many of the artists who worked in the early years of the program now rank among Arizona's most successful practicing artists and their former students are found in today's arts audiences; some have even followed their mentors to become working artists.

1974

The Commission's Expansion Arts program, serving Arizona's ethnic populations, is the first state program of its kind in the nation. The program encourages the presentation and preservation of Arizona's rich ethnic traditions.

1976

In response to Arizona towns' desire for quality performing arts events in their communities, the Commission initiates the Art-in-Arizona Towns program. Performing artists visit communities for three to six days, giving performances and workshops.

In partnership with social service organizations, the Commission begins the Ticket Discount program to help people with disabilities and elderly citizens attend performing arts events. (The program is active for 15 years.)

The National Endowment for the Arts awards the Arts Commission a Challenge Grant of $480,000 to distribute among eight major cultural institutions. This special three-year grant requires the institutions to match each federal dollar with three dollars or more of new and increased giving. The institutions actually match the grant with seven dollars of private donations to each federal dollar. This same year the Commission awards general operating support grants to large institutions. The Challenge Grant and Basic Aid demonstrate the commitment of the Arts Commission to contribute to the continued artistic development of our statewide cultural treasures.

The Artists Fellowship program begins awarding fellowships in the visual arts followed in subsequent years by awards in performing arts and creative writing. The program underscores one of the Commission's primary goals: recognition and support for Arizona's artists. Fellowship awards provide individual artists the opportunity for research, development and creation of new work. (The program continues for 24 years.)

When Governor Bruce Babbitt commissions works of art by Arizona artists for two new buildings in the Capitol Mall, the Commission designs and implements an Art in Public Places program that assists local communities in selecting, commissioning and funding art for public spaces.

With the support of a National Endowment for the Arts fellowship grant to Executive Director Louise Tester, the Commission begins a pilot project of cultural exchange with Mexico. This International Exchange program (International Arts Exchange) provides assistance for Arizona artists to tour Mexico and other countries and for international artists to tour Arizona.

The Governor's Arts Awards program begins with Governor Bruce Babbitt presenting the first awards to recognize excellence in individual and corporate support of the arts. The Governor's Arts Awards program continues as a joint project of the Governor's Office, Arizonans for Cultural Development and the Arizona Commission on the Arts.

The Commission designs the Organization Development Program (ODP) as a specialized training program to give technical assistance to the boards and staffs of Arizona's developing arts organizations. Today the program, now known as General Operating Support, provides funding and technical support to more than 140 Arizona arts organizations which produce ongoing public programs.

1981

The Commission initiates the Design program to offer technical assistance to communities and nonprofit organizations in graphic design and the planning of cultural facilities: performing arts centers, galleries, museums, cultural parks and artists' spaces.

1982

As a result of a positive performance review conducted of state agencies by the Arizona Auditor General's office, Governor Bruce Babbitt signs enabling legislation continuing the agency to July 1, 1992, and officially changes its name to Arizona Commission on the Arts.

1984

Arizona becomes a partner with Meet the Composer, Inc., the national service organization which promotes the music of living American composers, encourages the commissioning of new music and develops audiences for the music of our time.

1987

The Arts Commission celebrates its twentieth anniversary with the completion of a major research project resulting in a statewide arts plan, Arizona: The Arts in Partnership, 1987 - 1990. The plan gives visibility to Arizona's model arts programs and shows how the arts can serve as partners with other sectors in promoting Arizona's artistic resources.

1988

The Arizona Commission on the Arts joins six other state arts agencies in a national consortium which receives a three-year Challenge Grant to support individual artists from the National Endowment of the Arts.

The Local Arts Agencies project begins to assist new and developing local arts agencies with program planning and administrative and organizational skills. The project increases awareness and accessibility of the arts in each participating community.

The Arts Commission, with the Arizona Department of Education, completes the first Statewide Survey on the Status of Arts Education in Arizona Public Schools, 1988. Educators, arts administrators and community leaders attend a retreat to assess the survey information and issue a consensus statement called The Oak Creek Accord, detailing a five-year plan for the future growth and direction of arts education in Arizona.

To support individual artists in all disciplines for specific projects, the Commission creates the Artist Project program. The program supports and encourages artists' ideas, dreams and needs, encouraging collaborations and interdisciplinary projects.

The State Legislature establishes the Arizona Arts Trust Fund, by adding fifteen dollars to the annual corporate filing fee. The program increases general operating support for arts organizations and requires participating organizations to document a plan to include representatives of racial and ethnic minorities on their boards.

The Commission's Education projects assist schools and arts education organizations and help make the arts basic to education. Strong emphasis is placed on collaborations among arts disciplines and the use of community resources in the arts.

1990

In an innovative partnership between artists, private enterprise, prosecutors, law enforcement and educators, the Anti-Drug A.P.P.L.E. Corps places artists in after-school programs to help youth, family and community to reject drugs. The program is supported with RICO funds from the Maricopa County Attorney's Office.

The Arizona Arts Congress, in conjunction with Arizonans for Cultural Development and Arizona Alliance for Arts Education, brings more than 300 people to the Arizona Capitol to hear legislators speak about the arts and attend a luncheon with their legislators.

Arizona Dance on Tour increases the audiences for high-quality dance presentations. National touring artists present concerts and residencies with local dance companies and communities.

The Tribal Museum program (Tribal Museum Assessment) provides technical assistance to established and emerging tribal museums and cultural centers. The Commission surveyed more than 25 Arizona tribes to identify needs of tribal museums and their communities. Technical assistance includes on-site consultants and salary assistance.

The Commission's Rural Assistance program provides technical assistance to rural sponsors for exhibition development. A series of workshops, held in Bisbee, Flagstaff, Globe and Sacaton, provides training in audience development, education programs, care and preservation of artwork, working with historic buildings and developing exhibition seasons. (The program was active for two years).

The Arts Commission joins the Arizona Department of Education and the fine arts departments of the three state universities in a collaborative effort to make the arts a part of basic education. The Directory of Arizona Exemplary Fine Arts Sites, K - 8, Arizona Arts Education Research Institute and Artist Teacher Institutes are the results of this joint effort.

As part of a national campaign, Arizona Save Outdoor Sculpture! locates and inventories publicly accessible outdoor sculpture while increasing public awareness of the value of outdoor sculpture and the need to care for it. Arizona SOS! joins with 35 other states in the effort sponsored by the National Institute for the Conservation of Cultural Property and the National Museum of American Art, Smithsonian Institution. (The program was active for two years.)

Funded by the National Endowment for the Arts, the Collaborative Initiatives program focuses on collaborative artistic projects that help organizations reach new communities. The Commission gives priority to projects that show a sincere sharing of talents and specific efforts to understand different cultures. (This program was active for one year).

In a collaborative project between the Arts Commission, the Arizona Department of Education and the fine arts colleges of the three state universities, the Arizona Arts Education Research Institute (AAERI) funds research studies which examine programs in the arts to determine their impact on learning.

The Border Arts project supports arts programs reflective of the cultural heritage of the people in the border counties of Yuma, Santa Cruz and Cochise. (The program is active for two years.)

Supported through the Western States Arts Federation, Tumblewords: Writers Rolling Around the West places Arizona poets and writers in underserved communities for outreach activities and public community readings. (This program is active for 10 years.)

1994

Arts Education Through Distance Learning allows two teams to conduct distance learning experiments using communications technology with K-12 arts curricula. The University of Arizona designs music and visual art lessons; Arizona State University focuses on dance and drama. (This program is active for three years.)

1996

The Arizona Legislature and Governor Fife Symington create the Arizona Arts Endowment Fund (Arizona ArtShare), a public-private partnership. This long-term funding mechanism will, through interest income from permanent endowment funds, support the stabilization of Arizona arts organizations, and arts education.

1997

The State Board of Education adopts Arts Standards with the expectation that students demonstrate competency in music, visual art, dance and theater by the eighth grade and proficiency in one art form by graduation. The Commission works with the Department of Education and the Arizona Alliance for Arts Education developing strategies to help local schools make the arts an integral part of the curriculum.

1998

The Arizona Commission on the Arts entered into a unique collaboration called Arizona ArtsPlace with the Phoenix Arts Commission, Business Volunteers for the Arts, the Tucson-Pima Arts Council, Arizona State University and the Western States Arts Federation. This collaboration provides grants, technical assistance, computer hardware and software and training to Arizona's non-profit arts organizations to develop and maximize their online capabilities. (This program continues for six years.)

ArtistsRegister.com/Arizona is an online register of Arizona's visual artists which eliminates multiple slide submissions for artists and provides easy-to-access notices of public art projects and competitions. The online register connects people interested in visual arts with Arizona artists and their work. ArtistsRegister.com/Arizona is a collaborative project with the Chandler Arts Commission, City of Glendale, City of Yuma, Greater Oro Valley Arts Council, Phoenix Arts Commission, Scottsdale Cultural Council, Tempe Cultural Services, Tucson/Pima Arts Council and the Western States Arts Federation. The program has added a performing arts register and a literary arts register as well.

A federally funded program, School -To-Work brings businesses and schools together to create meaningful work experiences for students. The Arizona Commission on the Arts became the fiscal agent for a unique arts and humanities partnership that introduces students to the wide variety of careers available in the arts. (The program is active for three years.)

ARTability: Accessing Arizona's Arts is a consortium of 30-plus organizations which combine resources in order to hire a full-time Accessibility Coordinator. This Coordinator provides technical advice to arts and cultural organizations wishing to develop accessible programs and spaces; distributes information about accessible arts programs and facilities to the disability community; organizes, promotes and coordinates Audio Description, American Sign Language interpretation and other accessibility services. ARTability also promotes Universal Design in architecture, provides information on accessibility-related issues and promotes community awareness of disability-related issues.

The Commission's Artist Teacher Institutes support two or three-day professional development institutes for teachers and administrators on-site in rural school districts throughout Arizona. Presented by Arts Commission staff and Arizona teaching artists, the Institutes help teachers in rural schools learn skills to teach using the arts and implement the Arizona arts standards.

2000

In a public and private partnership with the Arizona Community Foundation, the Arizona Humanities Council and the Arizona Department of Commerce, the Arts and Culture Build Communities supports planning and implementation of projects with ethnic or rural arts/cultural or heritage organizations that support a community's cultural resources through economic and tourism development strategies and supported by interest income from private contributions to Arizona ArtShare. The program is now called The Arts Link to Tourism and the Economy.

2001

The agency participates in a nine-month sunset audit by the Auditor General. Legislation is introduced and passes in the 2002 session, reauthorizing the agency for 10 more years.

2002

The Wallace-Reader's Digest Funds (now The Wallace Foundation) selects Arizona as one of 13 states to participate in a national research project, exploring new strategies in building public participation in the arts. The Commission designs the Understanding Participation project (UP) as a learning opportunity between the state arts agency, consultants in the areas of arts participation, and Arizona's arts organizations, communities and artists. The project brings together national research and technical assistance combined with local research and experiments to result in broadening, deepening and diversifying participation in the arts.

Program Areas

National and Regional Affiliations

The Arizona Commission on the Arts participates in the programs of the Western States Arts Federation (WESTAF) which works to promote the promotion of the arts in and of the western United States, including online registers for visual, performing and literary artists.

The Arizona Commission on the Arts is also a member of the National Assembly of State Arts Agencies, Americans for the Arts and the Association of American Cultures.

Historical Summary

In its first year of existence, the Commission sponsored 32 events, serving a small arts constituency. Since that time the migration to the Southwest has multiplied the population of Arizona many fold, increasing the demand for the arts. Spread across the state are hundreds of arts and community organizations, dedicated to making their communities better places in which to live, work and play.

Organizations receiving Commission support reach or touch more than six million people annually. The commitment to continued cultural development in Arizona is a challenge shared by arts organizations, artists, audiences and the Arizona Commission on the Arts.

What does the Commission do?

The Commission is known as a funder but also as an essential resource for information, research and consultation about the arts industry. The Commission is also respected as a leader in the national and Arizona arts community.

Information and Referral

The Commission offers staff and consultant resources with expertise in arts disciplines and community development provide referrals and information to help artists and arts organizations connect most effectively with their communities. Areas of expertise include organization development, community participation building, grants preparation, marketing, fundraising and board development.

The Commission houses a specialized non-circulating library, the Arts Resource Center, with current publications on copyright, taxes, legal issues, health hazards in the arts, arts participation, fundraising, management, marketing, publicity, board development and facility planning.

The Commission also has an extensive website so that constituents can access information from anywhere in the state at any time.

Research

The Commission receives and maintains a wide array of current information, data and materials in arts, arts education and related areas. The Commission can guide people to these resources through our website and publications available in our Arts Resource Center or to research at other service organizations and public agencies. The Commission also tracks research and statistics on a broad range of areas from cultural tourism to economic impact studies of the arts to the influence of arts education on student learning.

The Understanding Participation project (UP), Arizona's partnership with The Wallace Foundation) provides additional research and learning about what motivates people to participate in the arts along with strategies to put this knowledge into action. As well, we are learning to articulate and demonstrate the public value of the arts and the state arts agency.

Professional/Staff Assistance

Commission program staff have expertise and experience in arts administration, arts disciplines and as facilitators. Constituents are encouraged to speak with staff about potential projects; discuss organizational or career development issues; ways in which they would like to connect to others in their communities or artforms; or to facilitate staff and board discussions.

The Commission's Peer Consultant Roster offers consultants with experience in board development, marketing, fundraising, cultural tourism, community cultural inventories, arts participation research projects, accessibility and other specialized areas.

The Commission makes Consultant Services Grants available to arts organizations to assist with the costs of one-day consultancies. Each consultancy leave organizations with ideas and tools to move forward on their own.

Convening

The Commission has become a catalyst and facilitator in bringing together members of the arts community around important issues.

Each year the Commission sponsors the annual Southwest Arts Conference (SWAC) to discuss current topics in the arts. More than 350 arts workers from around the state attend to hear national speakers and panels. Additionally the staff convenes 10 to 15 community workshops each year. By bringing together groups of people, the staff can learn about issues in specific disciplines (music, dance, theatre, visual arts, literature) or programs such as arts education, presenting and others.

The Commission has also been instrumental in the creation of the Alliance for Audience, a new collaboration between arts groups, that works to make ticket purchasing easier for consumers and create an online arts calendar that list upcoming events.

In addition to their many other duties, Commission staff attend many convenings around the state such as the Governor's Conference on Tourism, the Department of Commerce's Rural Economic Development Conference and the Arizona Museum Conference. The Commission also works with the Main Street programs to learn about design and programmatic issues in the arts that affect the economic viability of rural areas.

Technology

For six years, the Commission has been a partner with the Phoenix Arts Commission and others in Arizona ArtsPlace. This grant program helps Arizona arts organizations maximize their online capabilities. This program is currently on hiatus. In its place, the Commission's website contains information on technology resources for arts and nonprofit organizations.

Funding

Funding offers the State of Arizona direct methods to improve the quality and depth of programs available to the people of Arizona.

Organizations

The Arts Commission offers General Operating Support grants to not-for-profit arts organizations to provide the stability and infrastructure. This support allows organizations of all sizes to develop and present high quality and effective programs for the public. This support is also available for local arts agencies and tribal museums.

The Commission also awards Project grants in the disciplines of design and public art, literature, music, dance, multidisciplinary, theatre and visual and media arts. Project grants strengthen the quality of artistic resources available to communities. These art forms may be produced by discipline companies or provided to their communities by presenting organizations or festivals.

Other special initiatives include Meet the Composer and Dance on Tour, and working with the Arizona Department of Transportation to include enhancement projects within transportation design (T-21).

Arts Education Project grants connect practicing artists in all disciplines with schools, after-school programs, libraries, museums and other community settings. These programs reinforce the value of the arts as an essential part of basic education, support the implementation of the Arizona Arts Standards and provide students and teachers opportunities to explore the arts and participate in hands-on creative experiences with artists.

Special initiatives include the Anti-Drug A.P.P.L.E. Corps, a partnership between artists, private enterprise, prosecutors, law enforcement and educators. This program places artists in after-school programs to help youth, family and community reject drugs with support from the Maricopa County Attorney's Office.

Artist Teacher Institutes introduce teachers from all grade levels in two-three day seminars to the arts, the arts standards and ways to utilize the standards in their teaching practice. The Arizona Arts Education Research Institute supports research in arts education in partnership among the Commission, the Arizona Department of Education and the fine arts colleges of the three universities.

Individual Artists

Artist Projects encourage artists to pursue research and development and to extend their mastery of their art forms.

The online Arizona Arts Roster compiles a listing of juried artists in many disciplines who are interested and available to work in schools and communities.

Artists with official invitations to perform and present their work from governments outside of the United States may be selected for the International Arts Exchange.

Artists can also apply for Professional Development awards to attend conferences and learning opportunities in order to further their professional artistic and management development.

With the increasing popularity of the internet, the Commission has helped create three programs that connect artists to audiences via this new technology. ArtistsRegister.com is a non-juried listing for visual artists; WritersRegister.com for writers and PerformingArtistsRegister.com for performing artists. The three online registers are managed by the Western States Arts Federation. The ArtistsRegister.com/Arizona is supported in Arizona with other partners including the Phoenix Arts Commission, Tucson/Pima Arts Council, Mesa Arts Center, Scottsdale Museum of Contemporary Art, Glendale Arts Council, Chandler Cultural Foundation.

To connect people with disabilities with the arts, the Commission is part of a consortium of 40 organizations called ARTability.

In-depth information on all these topics can be found on the website at www.ArizonaArts.org.

Highlighted Program

Arizona–Mexico Commission Accomplishments 2003

The Arizona Commission on the Arts (ACA) has an extensive, twenty-six year history of facilitating and supporting international arts projects that provide engaging cultural experiences for artists and communities of Arizona and Mexico. The range of projects includes performing arts cultural exchanges with Mexico, collaborations between artists and creators on both sides of the border and ACA Staff contributions at international cultural policy forums such as the Arizona–Mexico Commission Arts & Culture Committee.

In 2003, the Arizona Commission on the Arts, through its constituent organizations, supported the representation of Arizona artists, from a variety of disciplines, at major international festivals and exhibitions and exposed residents in Arizona communities to international artists visiting the state. These successful events contributed to the quality of life, as well as provided significant economic impact to, a variety of communities on both sides of the border. Listed below are several recent international projects supported by the Arizona Commission on the Arts in cooperation with other public and private partners and sponsors of the United States and Mexico.

2003 Performing Arts Exchanges

Several artistic exchanges involving performing artists from Arizona and Mexico were coordinated between Arizona and the Mexican states of Sonora and Sinaloa:

Connecting Indigenous Communities

Arizona Commission on the Arts and the U.S. regional arts service organization, Western States Arts Federation (WESTAF) jointly supported The Salt River Pima–Maricopa Basket Dancers—a co-ed group of native youth from the Salt River Pima–Maricopa Indian Community—to perform at Culiacan and Los Mochis, Sinaloa as part of El Quinto Encuentro Yoreme Sinaloa (May 27–June 2).

The Basket Dancers performed ancient tribal dances honoring seasonal rites of passage and were accompanied on their trip by traditional healers of the Tohono O'odham and Pascua Yaqui tribes. Financial Assistance

Awarded by the Commission (alphabetical by county and city)

This section details each individual grant made to organizations and individuals in FY04. Organized alphabetically by county, and then by municipality within the county, this lists each grantee and the title of the project or grant type, and the sources of funds for the grant.

How Were These Grants Selected?

All grants are awarded through a process in which the organization or individual applies for support. If they meet eligibility requirements, their application is reviewed through the applicable process and criteria. Applicants must document and certify the use of the funds before payment is made, and they report on the project after completion.

Where Does the Money Come From?

Federal funds are provided through Congressional appropriations to the National Endowment for the Arts; Arizona receives funds through a Partnership Agreement (a portion is calculated by formula and a portion through a competitive review process) and Challenge America (designed to support programs in underserved areas).

State funds are appropriated by the Arizona State Legislature. ATF denotes the Arts Trust Fund; these grants are specifically designated for general operating support for arts organizations from a portion of the annual filing of businesses with the Corporation Commission, interest income from the state portion of Arizona ArtShare, the state's arts endowment housed in the State Treasury and private funds at the Arizona Community Foundation.. Other funds come from interest generated by Arizona ArtShare, the state arts endowment fund; RICO funds through the Maricopa County Attorney's Office to support Anti-Drug A.P.P.L.E. Corps projects; Meet the Composer, Inc.; and The Wallace Foundation.
